gan square, Philadelphia. General Description of the Parkeville Hydropathic Institute

The main building is three stories high, standing back from the street about one hundred feet, with a semicircu-lar grass plot in front, and contains thirty to forty rooms. The grounds around the house are tastefully laid out with walks and planted with trees, shrubs, &c. On the left of the entrance to these grounds is a cottage containing four walks and planted with trees, surface accounts in the entrance to these grounds is a cottage containing four rooms, used by male patients as a bathing house, with overy convenience for "packing," bathing, &c.; on the right of the entrance, about two hundred feet distant, stands a similar cottage, used by the ladies for similar rowrows.

purposes.

In the rear of the Institute, at the distance of one hun In the rear of the institute, at the usualize of the hard dred feet, are three other cottages, some eighty feet apart. One of these is the laundry, with a hydrant at the door; the other two are occupied by the servants. The hydrant water is introduced into these cottages as well as into the main building, and all the waste water carried off by drains under ground.

price, $2 50 per volume. Orders respectfully solicited.

SEARS' PICTORIAL FAMILY PUBLICATIONS
are decidedly the best books that agents can possibly employ their time in supplying to the people of the United states. They are valuable for reference, and should be possessed by every family in this great republic. There is not a city or town in these United States, not even those of small importance, but contains many citizens to whom these works are indispensable. They are adapted to the iterary wants of the Christian, the patriot, the statesman, and the domestic circle, got up in a superior style of art and workmanship; and are not only such books as will sell, but are such as an agent of good principle will feel free to recommend, and willing to see the purchaser again after they have been bought.

Our Plax—The plan the publisher has so successfully carried out for several years, is the obtaining responsible men as agents, who are well known in their own counties, towns, and villages, and have time and disposition to circulate good and instructive books among their neighbors and friends. Any person wishing to embark in the enterprise will risk little in sending to embark in the enterprise will risk little in sending to embark in the enterprise will risk little in sending to embark in the cutter of the same of the same of the above volumes; and all postmasters, clergymen, book pediars, and newspaper agents, are respectfully requested to act as our agents. A handsome remuneration allowed to all who engage in their sale. For particulars address, post paid, ROBELT SEARS, 128 Naszau street, N. Y. To publishers of newspapers throughout the United States.

Newspapers copying this advertisement entire, without any alteration or abridgment, (including this notice,) and giving it a few inside insertions, shall receive a copy of any of our $2.50 or $3 works, subject to their order, by sending direct to the publisher.

A "Pharaoh-bank" was 'cross the road,
And thar we went when we got done—
I was, as Beau says, "cenmost thowed,"
And "in-for any sort o' fun."
I played and played, with one or two,
Until I didn't have a cent—
Except that dime the hole was thew:
All dad had gev' I'd gone and spent;
That sobered me a bit, and made
Me think o' goin' right straight home,
But Beau says, "Supper's a'most laid—
They charges nothin' 't all to come!"
Sure 'nuff, he'd hardly spoke the word,
And ended with his usual jerk,
Afore the poppin' cocks was heard,
And knives and forks was heard at work.
I it, jest like a chieken-hawk,
Upon that shem-pain, and them duck:
I drinked so much I condin't talk—
And didn't care no more fur luck.
I staggered out—I do' know how—
I jest had sense enough to go
Where Snarley was, hitched to the bough—
The roosters now beginned to crow.

The night was black as it could be—

The night was black as it could be-

The night was black as it could be—
It was, I s'pose, nigh on to one;
O'nywhen lightnin' flashed you'd see,
I lay on Sharley 'dill he run!
The turnpike-gate went toddlin' past,
I didn't stop to pay the toll;
Ole Sharley couldn't tare too fast— Ole Snarley couldn't tare too fast—
1 rid for very life an 'soul!
No bit he had—no bridle on—
He'd lost both, somehow, long ago;
One shoe was hangin', two was gone—
Poor creetur', how the beast did blow!
The wind was wild, the lightnin' flashed—
The thunder roared most awful loud—
The rain in blindin' torrents dashed—
The whole wide hevings was one cloud!

The whole wide hevings was one cloud!

I was nigh home—I passed the church—
The lightnin' showed each grave-stone clas
Next come the murdered traveller's birch—
A lonesome tree, all black and bare:
I driv my heels with might an' main
Into old Snarley's pantin' sides;
I quaked to look, but looked again,
And first, an' fister yit, I rides.
I'd got jest opposite the tree, and
When setch a streak o' lightnin' come—
I could'n thear no more than see—
The thunder struck me mortal dumb!
The birch was crashed from top to root,
One branch across the road was flung,
And what was left caught fire to boot—
I felt as bad's the man they hung.
As soon as Smrley seed the flash,
I never knowed his heels go higher;
And then he turns and makes a dash
Right for the tree he seed on fire.
It tworn't no use to pull him back—
I stuck on, holding by the mane—
I felt my hold was monstrous slack,
Without a stirrup, bit, or rein.
But all at once the darn brute stopped,
Clean on his hauches back he went,
And like a lump of lead I dropped,
Or, ruther, like a ball was sent.
Fifteen good feet, as sure's you're born,
I tumbled fore I tetched the ground;
I made my mind up I was gone,
And feared I never would be found.
I know'd where I wear well chough,
And wondered I worn't smasshed to death;
'Twas in the quarry, by the bluff,
I lay—wet, drunk, and out o' breath.

Twas in the quarry, by the bluff, I lay—wet, drunk, and out o' breath. The rain had made the bottom soft,
And I had slid into a pool—
While Snarley stood stock-still aloft,
As ef he thought I war a fool;
There he was found upon the brink,
Crappin the thistles round about,
Lookin' less like a ass, I think,
Than I did, when they drawed me out.
You never heard a poor thing cry
Like Susy did, when I got home;
I promised her, and dad, that I
Would never want, no more, to roam.

More Light .- Messrs. Editors: Added to the lrawings, leaf prints, and other specimens of juvenile improvement, already mentioned as ton; Joshua Lazarus and Mr. Mordecai, of New CHITECTURAL CABINET," containing specimens Attorney, of Indiana; J. M. Andrews, of Memof building materials, used both in ancient and phis: Dr. Levy: Mr. Furst, the first modeller modern times. A piece of marble, taken from the Temple of Diana of Ephesus, a specimen of iria, of Egypt, also of the Bunker Hill Monument, and of each of the principal national pubic buildings in Washington, are among the specimens, so labelled and designated as to show he names of the materials, and of the several ouildings for which they are used. As most of he specimens can be procured in Washington, collections of them properly labelled and arcollections of them properly account of anged can be easily made by members of schools, before the August holidays, for them to send or take to their friends. Very many uch collections have already been distributed brough the members of Congress to different parts of the country, which were uniformly resfaction. More than thirty of the collections has distributed were prepared by the hands of two girls of twelve and seven years old. H.

The old sycamore that stood near the bank."-Old Song Thank you, Messrs. Editors, for your just iscrimination as exhibited by your remarks in elation to those in charge of the public grounds, the have deemed it advisable to cut down sevral of the many sycamores that were originally lanted around the circular road of Capito dill when it described a semi-circle-that is, efore the grounds were extended into Penn vivania avenue, and up to the line of First

The "confidence" of the editors will suffer o diminution; and while the energetic Commissioner is bound to listen to the reports of hose whose duties lead them to notice the inlications of decay in the trees, and their scraggy appearance, he reserves, we doubt not, own judgment. The fact is, the sycamore hest flourishes near the water or low grounds, and there it looks well. See, for instance, that eautiful grove of sycamores below the circular oad, in the grounds immediately west of those f the Capitol. They were planted by an honest Irishman, to liquidate a debt due to a former surveyor of Washington, deceased, who re-sided on the Hill. He designated the spot in what was then called the "Botanic Garden, and prophetically added, that "the public in the next generation would bless the honest fellow for their delightful shade." Some men affect to despise new scientific discoveries, but it is because they lack wisdom to five Sundays. A like circumstance will not appreciate them.

THE JEWS.—For centuries the "children of Israel" have been a "scattered race"—persecuted by nations, denounced by sects, denied to citizenship, a home, and often life itself. The descendants of the "chosen people" are to be found among all nations of the earth, and with their national character, distinctive features, language, religion and traditions, unchanged.

They are at this present time as truly a "peculiar people" as they were two thousand years

Being persecuted and outcasts from citizenship for continuous centuries, in all States and Kingdoms, they were compelled to devote their energies to trade and traffic. Being the subconfiscated without previous notice, they have for years and years followed those pursuits among "Christians" that enabled them to make their worldly possessions immediately

Even in this country, where the Jews are in the enjoyment, under our laws, of all the political and religious privileges and immunities that are extended and guarantied to Christians, we find that here even they are found engaged generally in the same business and calling in those countries where persecution, disabili-ties and banishment had instructed them to appreciate the value of convertible property, and to be prepared to "leave" at "short notice.' Among the millions of farmers in the United States, we confess never to have known one who was a Jew. They are engaged, with but few exceptions, in commerce, traffic, brokerage and banking; as money-getters and money-lenders, dealers in jewelry and clothing, they are peculiarly distinguished. Nations, states and king-doms that have devied them citizenship have doms that have denied them citizenship have been and are now ruled by these Jewish moneyed kings. And among the numerous failures, frauds and bankruptcies that have occurred, how comparatively few Israelites are among that number! Exact, and it may be exacting; in their monetary dealings they are seldom chargeable with violations of their word or bond.

Again, among the thousands of paupers, beg-gars, vagrants, and convicts, who fill our poorwalk our streets, and crowd our asylums, houses of refuge and prisons, how many Jews are to be found? There are some few, undoubtedly, but we have never seen one to our knowledge. In this respect the Jews are a "peculiar people"—as a general remark it is cer-tainly true, that the Jews have no paupers at the public charge, no vagrant or orphan children that they do not provide for themselves, and few or no convicts in our penitentiaries, in charge of the State

In this city, and other parts of the State, we have a large number of Jews, and we have also in the city and State a large number of asylums, hospitals, jails, poor-houses, and houses of refuge; and we venture the assertion that in all of them there are not a dozen Jewish men, women, and children. It is a remarkable fact, and as creditable to the "chosen people" as it is remarkable, that in the State prison at Sing-Sing, New York, there are now seven hundred and ninety odd prisoners, of every creed and color, save and except the Jewish-not one person of the Jewish faith or descent is among the

A paper recently stated that the Israelites in the United States were not as distinguished for literary attainments as their brethren in the Old World. The Asmonean, the organ of the Jews in New York, and a very ably and candidly conducted paper, in answer, furnishes the following names: Major Noah, Col. David Solomon, of Mobile; Judah Touro, one of the most charitable men of New Orleans; Mr. Benjamin, at the head of the New Orleans Bar; Mr. Cohen, of Savanah; Mr. Delamotta, of Charlesleft at Mr. Gray's for diffusing light, is an "AR- York; Mr. Judah, the United States District of the Mint; U. elect from New York city, &c.
We have no Gentile prejudice whatever against the Jews—we have known them long and well, and while we regard them, emphatically, as a "peculiar people," we also greatly admire many prominent traits in their character—traits that attach to the whole "nation," and which we should rejoice to see as prominent and universal among Christians .- Cincinnati Gaz.

CULTURE.-One of our popular orators anounces this startling paradox in a printed lecture just published: "Crime increased in Eng-iand four times, and in Scotland twenty five times, as fast as the people. I refer to this increase of crime as a consequence of the culture of the age." Is education, then, a source of crime? Has the art of printing multiplied the vices of mankind? Are ignorance and barbarism only compatible with virtue? History refutes this assumption. Facts controvert it. It is sheer paradox, and pernicious doctrine. In another passage of the same lecture appears this anti-American sentiment: "Our larger cities conain masses of ignorance, poverty, and degradation, equalling the most loathsome quarters of their European seniors, and the Commons are assuming the government, as they absorb the wealth, of England." And why not? Why should the masses not reap the fruit of industry? Is not "the aspiring spirit of trade preferable to the monkish apathy of the dark land. ages? What should absorb wealth but labor? and capital ought to absorb wealth-a doctrine as monstrous and unjust in itself, as it is repugnant to every principle of republican freedom incorporated in American constitutions, or recognised as the foundations of justice, civilization, and social happiness .- Phil. Ledger.

RAZERING THE NAVY .-- A plan is proposed by Mr. Grice, naval constructor, for converting the frigates of the navy into steam propellers, by introducing some four hundred tons weight of machinery and coal, and taking away one-eighth of the number of guns, one-half the ammunition, and one fifth the number of men.

Naval constructors and officers of the nav are the best judges of the practicability of the changes proposed. If they approve the plan, as is said, it needs no other recommendation. If Mr. Grice is right in his assumptions, that the ships can do with one-half the usual amount of ammunition, and one-fifth less number of Messas. PHILADELPHIA QUAKER. - A certain "Friend," whom we very well knew, was recently at a distant place of summer resort. He stepped into the post office one morning, and while there the Postmaster asked him if he knew any English people staying at the hotel? "Why does thee ask?" said the Quaker. "Because," said the Postmaster, "here are half a dozen letters directed to England by the next steamer, and as the postage to Boston is not paid I cannot send them. If I cannot find the writers of them, they will be forwarded to the dead-letter office, in Washington." Our "Friend" looked at the letters. They were all double, and he remarked. energies to trade and traffic. Being the subjects of almost incessant persecution, banished

MYSTERIOUS BEHAVIOUR IN A CHURCH BELL. The good citizens of Crawfordsville, La., are greatly troubled of late by the unaccountable behaviour of their church bell. Precisely at 12 o'clock every night, it begins to tell in the most solemn manner, and continues for some time, though not the slightest visible power, whereby the bell is moved, can be d.scovered. NEVER SAY DIE!-The Boston Transcript hopes, while our Mint is about it, that it will improve the dies of our coins, so that taste as melt as "convenience" may be duly consulted; inasmuch as it takes no more gold to make a beautiful coin than an ugly. How strikingly true are the following sentiments, and yet they were written at the point of death by a suicide to his wife: "Love is strength, and the power of kindness most effiworld, and been a loser, even when victorious. It was the fault of my organization and educa-tion; your nature is fortunately different—it is mild and affectionate. You conciliate and make friends of all who approach you."

Mr. Brown's paper of a late date has the following:

"We cannot bandy epithets with the editor of the Indiana Journal. Our article in the daily of Friday was deliberately penned. We in-tended what we said. There it stands unal-tered and unexplained. He now talks of kick-ing—'Barking dogs seldom bite.'"

A quaint old gentleman, of an active, stirring disposition, had a man at work in his garden who was quite the reverse. "Mr. Jones," said he to him one morning, "did you ever see a snail?" "Certainly," said Jones. "Then," said the old boy, "you must have met him, for you could never overtake him."
